EXPLANATORY NOTE(This note is not part of the Regulations)

These Regulations are made under section 22(6A) and (7) of the Gambling (Anti-Money Laundering and Countering the Financing of Terrorism) Act 2018. They set out the framework governing the imposition of civil penalties by the Gambling Supervision Commission (“the Commission”) in respect of contraventions of AML/CFT legislation.

Regulation 4 specifies the maximum civil penalty that the Commission may impose. For operators, the maximum cumulative penalty is the greater of £1 million or twice the amount of any benefit reasonably derived from the contravention. For individuals, the maximum cumulative penalty is £50,000.

Regulation 5 sets out the factors that the Commission must consider when determining whether to impose a civil penalty and, if so, the amount of that penalty. Separate factors apply to operators and individuals, reflecting their differing roles, responsibilities and potential levels of culpability. In relation to individuals, the Regulations require the Commission to consider whether the contravention occurred with that individual’s consent, connivance or negligence, as well as other factors.

Regulation 6 sets out the process the Commission must follow when exercising its power to impose a civil penalty. This includes the requirement to give written notice of the decision, the reasons for it, the amount of the penalty, and any associated public statement. It also confirms that a civil penalty or public statement may not take effect until the period for bringing an appeal has expired, or any appeal brought has been concluded, in line with the appeal provisions in Part 4 of the Gambling (Amendment) Act 2006.
